$400,000,000 Offered "Not Dead Yet" Crushing Kurds Not Easy Real Estate and Beer

--By Arthur Brisbane--

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

BANKERS OFFERED $85,000,000 worth of preferred stock in the Dodge automobile company. Investors, who seem to have a good deal of money, offered to buy $400,000,000 worth. In addition to having money, the people seem to recognize a good thing when it is offered to them.

Suppose Henry Ford offered for sale his business, making 7,000 cars a day? How big a subscription would be offered?

AMERICAN "STATESMEN," everlastingly urging interference in Europe's affairs, might learn from Edgar D. Shaw's story about a colored bellboy:

Bellboy to hotel clerk: "A man just hung himself in No. 972."

Clerk: "How do you know?"

Bellboy: "I saw him hanging from the chandelier with a rope around his neck."

Clerk: "Did you cut him down?"

Bellboy: "No, he wasn't dead yet."

THAT BELLBOY carried self-control and respect for the plans of others too far. But, at least, he knew enough to mind his business, something that many of our statesmen have still to learn.

TURKEY PLANS to "crush the Kurds," and that will be a long, slow job.

The Kurds live in small villages, not easy to conquer, and in the Summer they drive their sheep to high mountain pastures. With them, fighting is a pleasure, other kind of work a bore. They are as proud of their ancestry, running back many centuries, as some New England lady, with an old-fashioned bureau and Mayflower relatives.

THOSE KURDS fought against Xenophon's brave handful, on their way back to Greece, and long before there was any Greece Kurds were fighting and marauding. They have been fighting Turks and Persians for the last thousand years, and will be doing the same thing a thousand years from now.

The earth changes slowly, and wiping out a nation, even a small one, as the Irish have proved, is no easy job.

ACROSS THE RIVER from Detroit Canadians will permit real beer with more than 4 per cent. of alcohol. The result is a real estate boom in Canadian lands purchased by American citizens. They want houses there, and country clubs.

One eminent Detroit real estate man puts it: "Work and exist by day in the United States; in the evening LIVE in Canada."

A tunnel for commuters would make the situation perfect, although not exactly pleasing to Detroit suburban real estate owners, or earnest teetotallers.

HIGH SCHOOL authorities would like to abolish secret societies among students. But the "cabalistic instinct," deeply rooted, is as old as the human race. Savages had their secret meetings and initiations in the forest, and their terrible "hazing." Young boys were supposed to endure cutting with knives or to hang suspended from thorns stuck in their flesh without whimpering.

The secret society for men and children satisfies man's desire to seem to know something that others do not know. Only REAL KNOWLEDGE can drive that out.

A UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT says radio stations may not broadcast copyright music. The copyright act applies to music by radio despite the fact that radio wasn't known when the law was written. The decision is wise and just.

The St. Vincent Hospital in New York is the most interesting place in the world today, for in it is Babe Ruth, the home-run king—a sick man. Everyone of millions of baseball fans know what that means, for they want Babe in the game—not in a sick bed. The picture shows the vanguard of kid fans, who were hanging beneath his window, pointing and wondering before he had been there long enough to get settled. Funny how they "catch on."

DAUGHTERS WON BY TWO BOYS FROM HUSBAND'S CAMP

Salem, April 10.—Eleanor C. Grover, wife of Lyndon A. Grover, rich Lynn shoe manufacturer, who is being sued for divorce on the ground of infidelity, testified in Probate Court today in finding her husband's daughter Elizabeth in a room with a college student at Casco, Me., last Summer.

The room adjoined a tea room conducted by Elizabeth Grover and Dorothy Cleveland, Mrs. Grover's daughter by a former marriage.

Mrs. Grover testified she had broken up a double elopement when she arose at 11 o'clock on the night in question and found two students who were employed at the Grover summer camp argue with Doreen to marry the two girls.

She found her daughter Dorothy in the kitchen with her intended husband, she said.

Mrs. Grover also admitted under cross-examination by Attorney Tuttle that she might have had $200 worth of dental work done in

MASK VICTIM KNEW, OF PLOT TO 'GET HIM'

Elimination today of Charles H. Hoyt, gassed Nova Scotia war veteran, as a suspect after a long grilling by State police, left the Waverley gas mask mystery more baffling than ever and directed attention to the statement made by the victim to his former landlady, Mrs. John W. Kelley of No. 118 West Newton street that he knew two persons who would like to "get" him.

Hoyt, the wounded Kilkie who was located in East Boston, satisfied the State and Belmont police that he did not arrive in Boston from the Provinces until Saturday morning and that he did not know anything about the death of Buchanan on Friday night.

Hoyt insisted to the Boston Evening American that he had told the police it carried in Boston Friday morning, and went to the home of relatives named McCormick on Meridian street, East Boston.

In the afternoon, he said he told the authorities, he went to Waverley

Los Angeles, April 10 (I.N.S.)—Mrs. Winifred Westover Hart, estranged wife of William S. Hart, screen star, suffered a new heart attack today and was reported near death.

INJURED IN ESSEX STREET EXPLOSION

Sidney Alpert, 19-year-old baker of No. 38 Dana street, Revere, was burned on the face and arms and cut about the head when a gas stove exploded in the bakeshop of the St. Regis Cafe, No. 23-25 Essex street, Boston, today.

Alpert was taken to his home where his injuries were treated. It was stated that his condition was not serious. The explosion was said to have been a slight one and no fire followed.

RUTH CAN'T PLAY, WORD FROM WIFE

New York, April 10—Babe Ruth is out of danger. But whether he will be out of the hospital in time for the opening game next Tuesday is another question—one that physicians are inclined to answer in the negative.

Mrs. Ruth, who with her daughter Dorothy, had visited the baseball star, said her husband regretted he would not be able to be in the opening game next week.

"He can't possibly play," Mrs. Ruth said.

At the offices of the New York Yankees it was said that Ruth would be kept at St. Vincent's hospital for "two or three more days" and that it was hoped he would be in condition to play in the opening game of the American league season next Tuesday.

However, it was added that Ruth would not be permitted in the Yan-

ACCUSE THREE OF ABDUCTING WOMAN

Accepting a ride home in an automobile after completing her work in a North End delicatessen store, Mrs. Frances Nester, aged 20, of No. 41 Fennel street, Cambridge, was driven to a lonely spot in Waltham, where three young men who were in the machine threatened her with a revolver and attacked her.

She is the mother of two children.

The woman fought her way from the car, fled to a nearby house with one of the trio in pursuit and summoned help. The Waltham police, after a wild chase, drove the car bearing the three youths into the North end arrested the trio.

At the Waltham Police Station the prisoners gave their names as Guy Rissutto, aged nineteen, of No. 25 Tileston street, North End; Vincent Consolo, aged twenty, of No. 170 Hanover street, and John Moscoso

Kids Spend Easter Mite on Bouquet for "Babe"

New York, April 10.—Leonard Lisanti and Peter Graffa were late for school today.

With Babe Ruth sick—well, they just had to do something. So, pooling the 50 cents they had been saving for their offering next Sunday, they bought a bouquet of daffodils. Then they hurried to St. Vincent's Hospital.

"They're for Babe," said Leon, to an attendant.

"Yes," said Peter, "how's he?"

The lads then ran to school, a bit tardy, but even the teacher could not blame them.

PHONE COMPANY RATE FIGHT ON IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, April 10.—The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company opened its case for higher phone rates in Rhode Island when hearings before the Public Utilities Commission began today. Mayor Joseph H. Gaynor of Providence and city solicitors for eight of the state's larger municipalities were present. The company proposes to present its direct testimony during the next three weeks. The hearings will be adjourned during the month of May to give company officials an opportunity to defend their case before the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commissioners.

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR CITY'S MILK SUPPLY

Mayor Curley today awarded contracts for supplying the city institutions with milk for the coming year, amounting to 500,000 quarts. The Whiting Milk Company will supply the City Hospital with 284,848 quarts of skim milk. The Long Island Hospital and Almshouse will be supplied by the Maple Farm Milk Company, eight quart cans at sixty-three cents a can (109,000 quarts. The Boston Sanatarium, Mattapan, Joseph L. CHICAGO RAISES MILLION FOR VICTIMS OF TORNADO

Chicago, April 10 (I.N.S.)—Chicago's drive for funds for sufferers in the tornado-stricken area of southern Illinois officially ended today when a $50,000 donation sent the total over the $1,000,000 mark.

The first appeal in this drive was broadcast by local radio stations the day after the disaster and the campaign has been virtually kept alive by this method.

HOD CARRIERS FIND JOBS FILLED AS STRIKE ENDS

Worcester, April 10.—The hod carriers' strike ended today, and 600 of them went back to work today, in most instances, to their places had been filled. As the contractors have maintained it was an outlaw strike, and showed no disposition to discharge the strike-breakers and take the strikers back, the status of most of them is doubtful. The hod carriers went out in defiance of the unions of skilled mechanics.

'I'M NOT MAD, JUDGE,' EXCLAIMS 'BOUDOIR BANDIT' IN COURT

The prospect of a life sentence dimmed not the self-made holiday of James E. Walters, the "Lone Wolf," today in Superior Criminal Court as he listened to two of his women victims describe how he invaded their apartment, trussed them up and then set out the night beside their bed.

Chewing gum vigorously and with all the laughing, carefree abandon of a schoolboy exulting in the spectacle of a ball game he has succeeded in viewing by scaling the fence, Walters shouted at witnesses, commended them for their accuracy and corrected them when he believed them inaccurate.

At intervals he chided his counsel about for not questioning witnesses, and once he demanded, in a loud voice, that the women in the courtroom be ordered out.

"I'm getting crazier every minute listening to these women," he shouted. "Take me home, will you?"

At brief intervals he burst into laughter when testimony of the women, Mrs. Agnes Prescott and her niece, Miss Katherine De Volt, tickled his risibilities.

When today's session of the trial opened in Superior Court, Walters was brought in smiling broadly. His gum was masticated rapidly as he was placed in the cage and he leaned over toward his counsel and began newspaperment and called gaily:

"Hello boys!"

Peter Boyle, his chief counsel, sent eyes and smile to the "Walk" who

MILLION FOR BROWN AND R. I. HOSPITAL

Providence, April 10—Charles T. Aldrich and Howe L. Aldrich, brothers, cotton shippers today announced joint gifts of $500,000 each to Brown University and to the Rhode Island Hospital, conditional upon like amounts being raised for the two institutions.

The Rhode Island Hospital is now planning a campaign to raise $1,000,000 for a new addition to the present plant on Eddy and Point streets.

CHAPMAN EXECUTION MAY BE HELD UP

Washington, April 10—Legal technicalities which may stand in the way of the execution of Gerald Chapman, master bandit, under sentence of death for the murder of a policeman in New Britain, Ct., are under study at the Department of Justice, it was learned today.

While no decision has been reached, some of Attorney General Sargent's advisers hold that Chapman is still in the custody of the Federal court, serving a sentence of 25 years and that he cannot be executed by Connecticut unless the Federal sentence is commuted by the President.

It was expected here that Chapman's attorneys will appeal to the Federal Courts for an injunction restraining Ed Buckley, warden, from carrying out the execution until the bandit has completed his Federal sentence.

The question as to whether the Federal government had the right to "loan" Chapman to the Connecticut court for trial was also brought up. Should judicial determination be in the negative, Chapman's trial might be invalidated.

Officials declared that Chapman's case is unique in the history of American criminal law and that precedent will be established by the United States Supreme Court.

M'MILLAN TO HUNT FOR NEW CONTINENT

Dayton, O., April 10 (I.N.S.)—Donald MacMillan, Arctic explorer, today announced that his next polar expedition will leave Wiscasset, Me., June 15. He hopes to discover a new continent, believed to be southwest of the North Pole. There will be no half-way point on this expedition," he explained.

"We either will be successful or we will fail. A forced landing in the Polar seas will mean instant death for the party or starvation," he said.

"Two amphibian planes belonging to the army air service, but loaned to the navy, will be used. Naval pilots will do the flying."

smoked his chin absently while gazing around the courtroom, rarely resting his eyes on the witness.

About 10:30," Mrs. Prescott continued, "we made ready for bed. Our bedroom was an alcove off the living room."

The "Wolf" suddenly came to attention here and shouted at the witness:

"Talk up, talk up. Come come, make her talk up."

Mrs. Prescott went on: "We were disturbed when the doorbell rang. It was a girl friend, a neighbor, at the door. I got up and started for the door, but as I peeked aside the portieres I found a man."

Walters from the cage here burst into a peal of laughter.

"He had a gun and mask and a flashlight. 'Don't make a move or I'll kill you,' he said. I was terrified with fear. I didn't know what to do."

BRAGGED OF KILLING MAN.

"He commanded me to go back to bed. He had heard me mention the name of a girl whom I knew was at the door. I had spoken it to my niece as I got out of bed. Calling her by name, this man said, 'You won't see your girl friend tonight. You're going to stay in bed.'

"I did as he commanded and got into bed. He took his flashlight and prowled around the living room. Then he said suddenly, 'Say, I just killed a man tonight.'"

From the cage where the "Wolf" had been grinning came a hearty "Ha! ha!" and he rocked with merriment.

Mrs. Prescott continued: "He said, 'I have a 45 automatic with dumdum bullets, but I don't shoot for the heart. I shoot them in the stomach.'

"My niece and I were frozen with fear. She started to get out of bed, but I pushed her back. She was on the inside. He then went to the dresser and took my niece's pendant, two diamond rings, another ring and a watch.

"He said, 'Where's your purse?' I did not answer, but he made me, and I told him where my niece's purse was. He took $25 in bills."

WOLF SCOLTS IN COURT.

Walters shouted out in court: "That's right—$25."

"Then he demanded to know where my purse was and I had to tell him. He took $35 from it."

Another shout from the "Wolf" in the cage: "No. No! Thirty dollars —his allegation."

Mrs. Prescott continued after the interruption: "Then he said, 'You girls will get a lot of notoriety, like Beside Kelley.' I said, 'We are business girls and don't want notoriety.'

"He said, 'Well, I can't help it. You will get it just the same.'"

At this point Walters stood up and leaned far out over the cage toward his counsel. "Say, ask her some questions; ask her some questions," he shouted.

"He said: 'I guess I'll make myself a cup of coffee.' On the way to the kitchen he removed a desk. He made me give him the key and went through the papers in it. On the table in the living room he discovered $3.35, and wanted to know what it was for. It was some money my niece had given me for a bill I paid for her. He took it.

"He came back from the kitchen with a bottle of milk, some cold meat and potatoes. 'Where's the bread?' he said. All this was in a very vicious manner."

Walters appeared serious for the first time during the part of the testimony.

"Oh, no no, not like that," he cried. "Oh, no."

TIED UP HIS VICTIMS.

"He sat there eating," Mrs. Prescott continued. "I said, 'You've got all the valuables we own—why not get out?' He said, 'No; I'm not going until morning. I'm not going in step out of here at this time and have the cops ask me where I've been.' He said he'd get twenty years if they caught him.

"I said, 'Well, you're not a real fellow.' He said, 'We all have to have our means of a livelihood.' (Walters laughed at this statement.) He said, 'I guess I'll tie you up. I'll telephone to the janitor in the morning and tell him to come up and release you.'

"I said, 'No, please don't do that. His phone is disconnected and you won't get him and we'll be tied up all day.' He asked me for my stockings and made a gag of them. Taking off the wire from the bridge lamp, he tied my hands and feet.

"I had a ridge in my wrist a quarter of an inch deep." At this point the witness, who was talking direct to the jury, raised her right wrist and pointed to it with her left hand.

District Attorney O'Brien showed the witness an exhibit which she identified as the gag made of her silk stockings. Walters stood up and leaned over the front of the cage and said to his counsel:

"Say, ask her some questions. Go on, ask her some questions." Attorney Borre quieted him.

"He put me in the back bedroom," Mrs. Prescott continued, "and tied my hands to the back of the bed so that I was just barely able to move at all."

"That's right," Walters interrupted, "and I kept going in and asking if she was all right."

Mrs. Prescott continued:

"I told him he was hurting my hand, but he said: 'I can't loosen you now.'"

"I felt sorry for you, though," interjected Walters.

Mrs. Prescott: He tied me up about 2:30 in the morning.

Walters. That's right. Two o'clock.

Mrs. Prescott—I was tied there until 6:30. During his search around the house he discovered a bottle of Scotch liquor. I said to him: 'Please don't drink that. He replied, 'Well, you know I have a few bad habits, and he took a small vinegar bottle and poured some of the liquor into it and put it into his pocket.

Attorney Borre and Walters conferred at this point, and Walters was heard to mention a ginger ale bottle. Mrs. Prescott then identified Walters as the man she had been talking about.

"Chase these women out of here," Walters burst out. The only women present were the two witnesses and the stenographer.

After the district attorney finished his questioning Walters cried:

"I'm getting crazier every minute listening to these women. Take me home, will you?"

As the session got under way, the "Lone Wolf's" wife and sister-in-law, the latter Mrs. John McDonald of No. 5 Wandell street, South Boston, entered the courtroom and took front seats.

Mrs. Prescott was cross-examined briefly by Ira P. Farquhar, defense counsel with Peter Borre, and at one part of the cross-examination the attorney suggested that her answers to some of the questions be given to the jury alone.

"I want to hear it all," cried Walters, and when Judge Bishop asked Attorney Borre if he waived his right to have the answers given quietly to the jury, the "Wolf" burst out with:

"I'm the only one who can waive anything around here. Believe me I'm going to write another book. I've made a few mistakes in my life."

The niece, Katherine DeVoll of Dorchester, was next called to the stand, and as she took her place Walters slapped his thigh enthusiastically and laughed in apparent enjoyment.

She was asked if she was in Mrs Prescott's apartment on the night "you two women were attacked."

"What do you mean—attacked?" she returned indignantly. "We were robbed by this man, who tied us up and then stayed around most of the night."

"At 10:30," she said, "we prepared to go to bed. About two hours later my aunt got up to answer the bell, and while she was on her way to the door she encountered this man, who ordered her back to bed. Then he ransacked the apartment and tied us both up."

SCORES "FOOL WOMAN."

Atty. Borre here suggested that if her testimony corroborated that of her aunt, he would agree to have it given briefly, which was done on her assurance that her testimony would be substantially the same.

Walters voiced a strenuous objection, insisting that he wanted to hear it all.

The next witness was Inspector "Jack" Dorsey of Police Headquarters who read a transcript of questions and answers taken down by a stenographer during a police interview with Walters.

As Dorsey read of Walters' telling of suddenly appearing to the Prescott woman from behind the portieres in her apartment, Walters laughed and said: "Gee, that was comical."

ANOTHER VICTIM TO CONFRONT "WOLF"

Miss Katherine De Voll of No. 15 Queensbury street, who is to testify against James E. Walters, the "Lone Wolf." He tied the girl and her aunt, Mrs. Agnes Prescott in the latter's apartment at No. 15.

and other places in that neighborhood, looking for work. He said he returned to East Boston in the evening, had something to eat in a restaurant and went to the McCormick home.

Agai no nStaurday he said he visited Waverley and adjacent points, knowings of just where he went. Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night Hoyt said he stayed with his relatives, going to Newton on Monday.

Mrs. Kelley, the latest witness in the case, was discovered by the Boston Evening American.

"Sandy Buchanan told me one night," said Mrs. Kelley, "that he knew the persons who would like to get him. He started to leave our house at 9:30 after he had got a room at No. 101 Pembroke street. I asked him what his hurry was, and mentioned that it was early. He was like one of the family and I looked upon him as a son almost. He always called me 'Mother' Kelley.

SCOUTS SUICIDE THEORY.

"You're surely not afraid of any one stealing you, are you Sandy?' I said jokingly.

"'You never can tell,' replied Sandy rather solemnly. 'Know two who'd like to get me, but not if I see them first.'

"He did not mention whether the two persons were men or a woman and a man, nor did he go into any further details. In fact, at the time, the remark made no impression on me, but on account of his mysterious death and other things that have cropped out it now seems very significant as I look at it.

"Sandy wasn't given to telling his troubles, or his business, either, for that matter, but he never committed suicide. Of that I feel positive. Sandy Buchanan was the victim of a murder plot. Nobody can tell me different.

"I guess he took me into his confidence as much as anybody for a time. I was a sort of mother to him. That's why he and his brother Jack, who is due to reach Boston today from the Northwest, called me 'Mother' Kelley. They were splendid boys.

JOINED THE KILTIES.

"Sandy was only nineteen when he and his brother Jack came to lodge at my house before the war. Jack was just turned twenty. They had the double room over the parlor. Jack was the first to enlist in the Kilties. After he went away Sandy—they were inseparable—sat mooding on the front stoop or in his room. Then he suddenly started up one day and said, 'Mother Kelley, I can't stand it any longer. I'm going to join up too.' And he did next day.

"I got letters from Sandy and Jack from their camp in Canada and then one day a letter came from Sandy saying, 'Your kid will be on the rolling Atlantic when you get this, bound for France.' God spared them both and they came back, though Sandy was gassed and wounded by shrapnel. On his return to Boston he got a room at Mrs. O'Leary's, around the corner on Pembroke street and his brother went to the Northwest.

"Sandy called on me regularly. He made this his home as much as any place. Everybody in the house were fond of the lad. A finer young man never breathed. And he was greatly attached to his family and worshipped his mother. His parents called on me after their trip to Europe a year ago.

"When Sandy started going with Jessie McKenzie he brought her to me and I thought her a splendid girl. He couldn't do too much for her. He gave her other presents besides the diamond engagement ring. She seemed fond of him and he loved her with the devotion of a man who selects one woman. Sandy was no flirt. He was steady in his habits and read his Bible every night. He was very religious.

"He told me he planned to buy a two-family house before he married Jessie. He asked me to go house-hunting with him. We went to real estate agents all over Greater Boston. We looked at double houses in Brookline, Dorchester, Roxbury, Belmont and other places.

SURE HE WAS PLAIN.

"Then Jessie went to Cape Breton on her vacation and Sandy, when he called, never mentioned her again. I asked how Jessie was and he would always dodge the subject. Then one day he said, 'Mother Kelly there won't be any need to look further for a house. I'll have no use for it now. Jessie and I have broken up.' I was surprised to hear that. It affected Sandy.

"Then he told me his mother was seriously ill and was coming to Boston for an operation and that affected him. But he was a man about everything and did not burden others with his troubles. He called on me a day or two before he came to his death. He had arranged to repair the fence in our back yard.

THREE ARE HELD

la, aged twenty, of No. 149 Richmond street.

In Waltham court the suspects were arraigned charged with an attempted attack on the girl, who is mother of two children. On this charge the trio were held in $2,000 each and on a charge of carrying loaded revolvers they were held in $50 each.

The cases were then continued to April 14.

It is alleged that Risuito was the driver of the car, which belonged to his brother.

The Nester woman, hysterically told the Waltham police of her experiences.

She had left her place of employment and was accosted by Risuito, whom she knew slightly. Risuito offered to drive her home and she entered the automobile.

At the next corner, the other two youths were picked up and the car was then driven to Waltham, instead of Cambridge.

The woman said that when a lonely spot was reached on Lincoln street, two of the youths attacked her. She fought them off and when the car was stopped one of the pair drew a revolver and threatened her. The woman continued her battle and finally escaped from the machine.

She ran through the darkness to the nearest home, calling for help, with one of the youths in close pursuit. The occupants of the house, a family named Ryan, took the girl in and drove away the pursuer, who also sought entrance to the home.

The police were notified and the patrol drove up in time to see the machine bearing the three men disappear down the road.

The police gave chase and forced the fugitive car off the road. The machine went into the ditch and the occupants were overpowered before they could offer resistance.

kee lineup until he had fully recovered.

Edward Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said Ruth was slightly improved, although his temperature was still a little high.

Ruth seemed to be "well on the road to recovery," according to the Mother Superior at the hospital.

The bump on his head, which he suffered when he collapsed aboard the train which brought him to New York yesterday from Asheville, N. C., appeared to be nothing more than a bruise.

TOO MUCH FRIED POTATOES.

Although influenza was held responsible for his illness, it was said that the slugger's huge appetite also contributed to his collapse. He had friend potatoes on the train yesterday morning, along with a hearty breakfast, and physicians said that this, in connection with his weakened condition contributed to his collapse.

HAS HARD FIGHT WITH "FAT."

During the last four years, Babe has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., from 25 to 30 pounds overweight. He had set out for himself, frequently against the council of advisers, such a strenuous campaign of road work and exercises that it left him a prey for the germs of "flu."

This year, he came from his Sudbury, Mass., farm, weighing 245 pounds. He had cut down trees chopped wood and done heavy chores to try and fight off fat. But he found it impossible.

Donning a thick rubber abdominal belt, specially made for him; a rubber shirt, a thick undershirt and a heavy sweater over all—he began the most arduous kind of "cutting down."

REDUCED TOO QUICKLY.

The fact he had taken sick there in the Spring of 1923, after the World's Series that Fall, and again at Hot Springs in 1924, didn't seem a warning to the Babe.

In a little over two weeks, he took off twenty pounds. Then, on the mountain roads one day, he collapsed, and was confined to bed.

Ruth did not stop his heavy eating. He quickly took on ten of the pounds he had lost, and went to St. Petersburg, the Yanks' camp, in poor condition.

He found it difficult to "get his eye on the ball," and decided he had to get himself in better condition rapidly. More hard training ensued. While in St. Petersburg he made only one home run.

Ruth succeeded in getting down to 232 pounds, which he now weighs, and in hitting the ball, he had managed seven home runs, the best of any player on the touring Yanks and Robins.

But he did not feel well. He did not complain. Instead, he played games, as he was advised to do, so as not to disappoint the crowds. He was ill in a game at Knoxville, but wouldn't give in.

HURLEY NEW CHAIRMAN OF STREET COMMISSION

Thomas J. Hurley was today elected chairman of the board of street commissioners to take the place left vacant by the death of the late John H. L. Noyes.

His desk and office was banked high with floral gifts from his many friends and admirers. Several hundred letters and cards of congratulation were also received by the new chairman.

tect moving pictures from censorship, in spite of the fact that moving pictures were unknown when the Constitution was written.

What applies in one case should apply in another. The moving picture is printing, publicity, an improvement on old-fashioned press work. To censor it in advance is as preposterous as it would be to submit newspapers to the censor before allowing them to appear on the street.

RUST COSTS this country $300,000,000 a year and scientists wonder how they can save that money. One way is to use copper or brass instead of iron for water pipes, gutters, etc.

You are told that rust is caused by electricity generated by water and air combining. A way may be found to make iron rust-proof. Meanwhile, wherever air and water mix, use copper or brass and forget your troubles for a hundred years.

ANNUITIES TO 2 WIDOWS; HALF-PAY TO 8 FIREMEN

Mayor Curley today approved the payment of annuities of $600 each to the widows of Jeremiah T. Gillen and Andrew Jennings, former members of the fire department, who died from injuries received in the performance of their duties.

Because of physical disability the following firemen were retired on half pay of $950 a year:

John Dacey, No. 10 Bartlett terrace; Frank J. Punch, No. 199 Blue Hill avenue; James J. Connolly, No. 116 Marine road; George F. Cahill, No. 10 Saxton street; Peter F. Gately, No. 480 Lagrange street; William E. Rolfe, No. 5 Winslow street; John J. Regan, No. 114 Gardner street, and also Michael F. Maloney, ladderman, of No. 1250 Tremont street.

He was to start this week, but being Holy Week I told him to put it off until next week and he said he would. The next I heard he was strangled and bound with that gas mask—murdered.

EDITH GOULD DESCRIBES SCHOOL LIFE OF RICH CHILDREN

ENJOYED HER FIRST CLASSES

Was Dreadfully Lonesome, However, After Entering a Private Academy

By EDITH GOULD WAINWRIGHT,

Daughter of George J. Gould and Granddaughter of Jay Gould.

(CHAPTER XVII.

I QUAKED dreadfully in my black buttoned shoes the first day I drove to school accompanied by Aunt Carrie. It was something about which I knew nothing, because up to the age of ten I had been educated by governesses. I was afraid that I would be frightfully backward, because I had never had many English lessons and had heard that foreign languages did not count for much at school. Moreover, the term had started in October and it was January 9 when I entered.

On entering the building we were greeted by Miss Valentine Chandor, the associate principal, who has now a school of her own. She conducted us to the office of Miss Morse, then the principal. After questioning me a few minutes and listening to my nervous answers, made under the stern eyes of Aunt Carrie, Miss Carse said I was to be placed in the fourth grade. This, of course, meant nothing to me.

Liked Her Classes

After saying good-bye I was guided by Miss Chandor up the elevator two flights to an outside classroom where a lot of other girls of my own age were standing in line, waiting for the bell to ring as a signal for them to march down to the assembly hall for morning prayers.

I was introduced to my new teacher, Miss Carr, and shown where to hang my coat and hat and leave my things. Then I was placed toward the back of the line with the bigger girls and we marched downstairs. In the assembly hall, we sang several hymns and said the Lord's Prayer. After a few words of admonition from Miss Morse, we marched out again. The older classes were the last to enter the hall and the first to leave, as they took the elevator to the higher floors, and the smaller children walked the first two flights.

In spite of my fears, I enjoyed tremendously my first classes. They were history—concerning the early settlers in America; and science, in which the class had an

SAYS HUSBAND WAS 'ICE AND VINEGAR'

Mrs. Eleanor Grover had a long session on the stand, fighting her husband's charges in his suit for divorce. Among other things, she told how "Count" Paul A. Monte kissed her when he called at her home. She also said she learned that his "life story" was not all facts.

November, 1924, at a time when she was planning to leave her husband.

She entered a plea of not guilty when she testified that two pairs of shoes her husband had made for her in his factory didn't fit, and said, upon being asked, it couldn't be possible her bills for shoes purchased in other places had been almost $400 last year.

"Wasn't Mr. Grover's complaint because of unnecessary expense?" she was asked.

"That depends upon what he termed as unnecessary expense," she retorted.

"And wasn't your complaint also because you failed to keep your check books balanced?"

"I always kept my check book balanced. Many of Elizabeth's bills came in my name, too."

"Were you jealous of your husband's children?"

"I was not jealous of anyone."

"On the night when Elizabeth was to be maid of honor at her cousin's wedding, did you and Dorothy take the car and leave her in a hairdressing shop in Boston to get home as best she could?"

"No."

OTHER FORMS OF VIOLENCE

Asked if Mr. Grover had ever treated her with violence except on April 7, when she testified at a previous hearing he slapped her, Mrs. Grover replied, "Not physically."

Then she told, under cross-examination, of how she had arisen from bed at 11 o'clock at night last September and found her own daughter and Grover's brother about to elope with the students who were employed at Grover's Summer camp.

Grover specifically charged misconduct with Paul Monte on the New York boat the night of October 29-30.

Mrs. Grover said, in answer to questions by Edward F. Underwood, her husband's lawyer, that she was in New York that week to see her daughter, Dorothy Cleveland, who was undergoing an operation on her eyes.

Questions and answers for the next few minutes ran as follows:

Q—You stopped at the same hotel as Monte did, that week? A.—I stopped at the Biltmore, with my sister and daughter, Phyllis. So did many other people stop at the Biltmore.

Q—When you got ready to return to Boston, after the operation, what happened? A.—Mr. Monte got tickets for myself and Mrs. Stawser, my friend. Also our stateroom keys. Then we separated.

Q—When you reached Boston, Mrs. Stawser, whom you say occupied your stateroom with you, left in a hurry? A.—Yes. She was in a hurry. She had business to attend to.

Q—Then you left the boat? A.—Yes, and I found Mr. Monte at the passenger shed near the entrance to the pier.

Q—Then Soucy, your chauffeur, took Monte to his home in Wilmington? A.—He did.

Q—Didn't you consider it compromising to have your stateroom listed in Monte's name? A.—I did not.

Alleged to Be Leader of Gang Sending Pictures to Hub Schoolchildren

A woman is being sought as the leader of a gang of criminals that is believed by Suffolk County officials and the Watch and Word Society agents to be flooding the schools of Boston with improper pictures and literature.

Three raids conducted by the police, two on North End stores, another in a Commonwealth avenue apartment, have netted the authorities a large collection of improper pictures and literature, it is said, while two men have been arrested in connection with the raids.

While officers are running down a dozen angles of the case, women prohibition officers are conducting an investigation among the school girls of Boston to find out to what extent the offensive printed matter and photographs have been placed in their hands.

TRAILED BY POLICE.

A package which arrived from New York, addressed to "Miss Corrine McKay, No. 1102 Commonwealth avenue, Suite 20," gave the police the first intimation that a woman might be connected with the ring which is being hunted down.

The package was followed by detectives from the South Station to the Allston station of the express company and thence to the Commonwealth avenue apartment. A woman appeared at the door to sign for the package. Detectives held the door open and seized the package.

The woman became noisy and excited, and it was not until she was threatened with arrest that she subsided. The package was taken to the District Attorney's office to be used as evidence.

NORTH END SEIZURE.

In a later raid on a woman's hosiery shop at Nos. 91-93 Salem street, in the North End, the police arrested the proprietor, Louis Coppleman, after seizing a quantity of literature in his shop.

At police headquarters it was learned that Coppleman lives in the apartment on Commonwealth avenue where the woman signed for the package which detectives seized.

The raiding party uncovered a large quantity of alleged obscene matter at the Young Novelty Company shop at No. 94 Hanover street, North End. Carol Flashman, the proprietor, was arrested after he endeavored to lock the door of a large vault as the raiding officers ran through the store.

FOUND IN CELLAR

Flashman, when the detectives entered the place, sprang for the cellar stairs and tried to slam shut an iron door equipped with a spun lock. One of the detectives presented the door from being closed, and then caught Flashman before he could close the door of the vault.

It was while raiding the Flashman place that Coppleman entered the store saw the officers and beat a hasty retreat to his stocking shop where he found two officers awaiting his return.

Flashman and Coppleman, after their arrest, insisted on accusing each other of being the head of the gang engaged in distributing the obscene matter. Flashman put up bail of $5,000, while Coppleman was unable to furnish this amount of bond and was finally released on a bond of $3,000.

The police secured information which is expected to result in further raids.

Autoist Blown Up by Bomb in Feud Over a Girl

New Brunswick, N. J., April 10.—Samuel Vencheri, a barber, was blown thirty feet through the top of his automobile and suffered the loss of one leg at the knee and the other foot at the ankle, from an explosion in the motor of his machine, believed to have been caused by a bomb set as the climax to a five-year feud over a girl, Pendergast at St. Peter's Hospital here said Vencheri will recover.

Vencheri was found lying on the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street by Carl Fischetti, who rushed out when the explosion blew out all the windows in Fischetti's home. The front half of the car was demolished, part of it having been driven into the macadam pavement so deeply it could not be extricated.

LEEDS GIRL, 13, INHERITS MILLIONS

Adopted Daughter of the Tin Plate King's Brother One of Richest in World

Minneola, N. Y., April 10 (A. P.)—Already possessing millions in her own name, thirteen-year-old Joy Louise Leeds, adopted daughter of the late Warner M. Leeds, tinplate king, is one of the richest girls in the world today.

Under the will of her foster father, filed for probate here, the girl adopted by the Leeds when one year old, becomes the chief beneficiary of an estate valued at more than $4,000,000.

Leeds, a brother, and for many years business associate of Wilbur H. Leeds, the late tin plate magnate, died in New York city on March 29.

When Mrs. Leeds was killed two years ago in falling from a window of her home, she bequeathed to her foster child $250,000 in jewels. The income from a trust fund of $2,000,000 and the residuary estate, estimated at $1,250,000.

Leeds will specified September 15, last, directs that the residuary estate be held in trust for the girl until she is thirty-five, when the principal of the estate is to be paid over.

The income of a trust fund of $100,000 is bequeathed to Charles Sharp Leeds, a brother, of New York city. He has death the principal of the fund reverts to the residuary.

This is more than half of the total receipts for the year, which were 116,000,000 francs. Receipts in 1923 were 99,442,000 francs.

RICH REALTOR IS KILLED BY AUTO

Charlton Man Is Run Down by Machine on Commonwealth Avenue

Augustus Daniels, 69-year-old real estate broker of Charlton, near Worcester, died at the City Hospital early today of injuries suffered when he was run down by an automobile in front of No. 845 Commonwealth avenue.

The aged man was run down by the car owned and operated by Miss Eva M. Hunter of No. 145 Main street, Everett. Police placed the injured man in his motor car and took him to the hospital where it was found that he had suffered a fracture of the skull.

Daniels is said to be well known throughout the Worcester district, having been engaged in the real estate business for many years.

"SALLIES" CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY OF FOUNDER

New York, April 10.—The ninety-sixth birthday anniversary of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, is being observed by members throughout the world today. It was announced at the headquarters of the army here. Special meetings and anniversary ceremonies marked today's celebrations in this country. General Booth was the father of Evangeline Booth, who for twenty years has been in command of the Army's activities in the United States.

ANTI-KLAN CANDIDATE'S GROCERY STORE BOMBED

Berlin, Tex., April 10.—The second bombing within a month was staged here early today when a nexplosion wrecked the grocery store of Marshall McCormick and brothers in the South Side residence district. McCormick is a candidate for mayor of the "citizens" ticket, which is opposed to the conservative ticket sponsored by the Ku Klux Klan.

'SAVE FRANCE!' CRIES HERRIOT IN SENATE

Uproar Follows the Premier's Charges Against Poincare's Ministry

Paris, April 10 (A.P.).—"If this be war," let us have it out right here," said Premier Herriot, arising in the Senate today to reply to the most scathing arraignment his government has been subjected to during its ten months' life.

The debate had the Senate in such a state of effervescence as is seldom seen among the staid and stable Senators. Sentiment seemed evenly divided, and parliamentary prophets predicted the vote would be close on the Premier's demand for approval of his forced loan plan.

"France must be saved," exclaimed the Premier. "Let us save France with me or without me, with or without my government. Some one must do it. These financial measures must be passed."

The present situation of the treasury, said M. Herriot, was explained by the fact that the source of internal loans had been dried up, while when his predecessors were in office money had flowed in freely.

Premier Herriot's direct mention of ex-Premier Poincare was considered as making it certain the latter would intervene in the debate. The Premier alluded to him in saying a high official of the Ministry of Finance under Poincare, in December, 1923, on the eve of the flotation of the credit national loan, wrote the Bank of France that "the French treasury is already in desperate straits."

The Senate was thrown into an uproar at this. It seemed unlikely that a vote would be taken until late tonight, with the Cabinet's fate still in the balance.

Continuing, Premier Herriot said that the bonds which would be redeemed through the proposed forced loan or some other system eventually adopted should be burned in a public square to show the country that France was paying her debts.

10,000 Arrested for Graft

Moscow, April 10 (I.N.S.).—Near ly half the officials of Nakhichevan, a republic of 70,000 in the Transcaucasus, were under arrest today on charges of graft. Most of them were formerly nobles.

PAPERHANGERS THREATEN TO QUIT JOBS

Officials of Building Trades Council Hint at Spread of the Strike

A spread of the Boston building trade strike was foreshadowed in two important announcements made by the union chiefs this morning.

Officials of the Paper Hangers' Union, Local No. 258, stated that the 250 members of the local had voted to walk off all jobs on which strike breakers are being used to replace striking painters.

At 10:30 officials of the United Building Trades Council announced that a committee was starting out to canvass the city and call union mechanics off all jobs where non-union painters were found to be employed.

"BREAKERS" REMAIN.

Officials of the Painting and Decorating Employers' Association said that about 100 strike breakers were on half a dozen jobs in Greater Boston and would remain there.

They intimated that they had made plans to replace other mechanics in case of a general walk-out and to conduct operations on an open shop basis if necessary.

Representatives of 150 locals of the Massachusetts State Council of Painters' Unions met at the American House today. They will try to find jobs at the increased rate of $1.25 an hour, for those painters now on strike in Boston. A few will leave for Springfield late today, it was indicated. Secretary Patrick Triggs of Springfield called the conference. S. D. Brown of Chelsea, presided.

PARLEY TODAY.

Preparing for the resumption of the peace conference this afternoon, the seven labor members of the arbitration committee of fourteen were in consultation with union dignitaries today. They will continue the conversation with the employers' representatives, but have no power to commit their followers without reporting back and getting authorization.

All depends on the outcome of today's conference and on the ultimate decision of 5,000 building trade laborers, which is yet to be announced.

TO CUT SENTENCE OF TAUNTON SOLDIER

Washington, March 10.—The sentences imposed by army courts-martial in Honolulu recently on two American soldiers charged with communistic activities probably will be materially reduced, Major General Lewis, commanding the Hawaiian Department, today notified the War Department.

Private Paul M. Crouch of Taylorsville, N. C., was sentenced to dishonorable discharge and confinement for ten years, and Private Walter M. Trimbuil, of Taunton, Mass., to dishonorable discharge and imprisonment for 24 years.

General Lewis said a preliminary survey led him to believe the sentences were excessive. Proceedings of the courtsmartial, he said, have not yet been reviewed by the division judge advocate.

The charges against Crouch included, besides those of communistic activity, that he stated in the presence of other soldiers that he favored the overthrow of the government by revolutionary means, if necessary. Trumbull was not charged with thus advocating an overthrow of the government, but specifications against him included disrespectful language towards the flag and the President.

NANTASKET TO PICK 'BATHING BEAUTY'

All-the-Year Residents Will Hold a Mardi Gras Carnival

The question as to who is the "bathing beauty" among the all-the-year residents of Nantasket will be decided Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Mardi Gras carnival of the Father O'Brien Memorial Association which will be held at the Municipal Building, Green Hill.

This is but one of the many features of the presentation of the Mardi Gras, under the direction of Joseph Crossen. There will be two ballet numbers, coronation scenes and several solos and a minstrel setting.

Mrs. Gladys Wellman, whose voice was heard in a recent concert, has volunteered her services. A pleasant voice and contagious humor-sense has made her one of the most popular soloists along the South Shore.

A surprise offering will be a solo by twelve-year-old Tommy Donoghue.

There will be a ballet number by Misses Ruth Rogers, Margaret Tanrad, Hazel Carroll, Marie Rose, Jean Mascolli and Marjorie McKeown.

The pony ballet will comprise Misses Alice Nee, Florence McCarthy, Katherine Gilman, Mildred Dawson, Lena and Anita Colegrande. The swimming scene will feature Misses Doris Ahearn, Florence Colegrande, Thelma Bricket, Gladys Royce, Alice Hasbrouck, Marjorie Smith, Olive Dimond and Virginia Taurasi as diving girls and Ralph Royce, George Girton, John Sullivan, Edward Breen, J. Dolan and Michael Kelly as life guards. Specialties by Joseph Lynch, Raymond Gent, Miss Mary Lynch and Miss Bertha Phelps will be given. Appearing in solo numbers will be Miss Winnifred Finnegan, Miss Eleanor Riley, Mrs. Helen Nee, Mrs. Charles Johns and Mrs. Laura White.

Others in the cast, assisting in scenes of London Town, Tipperary, Times Square and Banks of the Clyde will be Miss Frances Lyons, Jack Spring, James Bacon, Miss Alice Snell, Miss Esther Halverson and Miss Elvira Rose.

Aiding Dance

Mrs. Hazel Healy, who was picked as "Miss Dorchester" at the Kane Post (A. L.) socials on last Armistice Day, is working hard to put over the post's Easter Monday dance a success.

MORE NEW STAMPS TO GO ON SALE SATURDAY

Washington, April 10 (U.S.S.)—Two more new postage stamps will be offered for sale next Saturday, one is the finest special delivery stamp for use on parcels subject to the increased rate authorized by the postal pay bill recently passed by Congress.

It will be of orange color. The other new stamp is the "Parcel Post Special Handling stamp" which is designed to give fourth-class mail the same expeditious treatment as is accorded first-class mail in transit. It is dark green in color.

CHURCHES HAVE GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Schools Close, but Most Hub Business Houses Remain Open

While Good Friday, the most solemn day in the Christian year, is being observed in churches through Greater Boston today, there is little observance of the day in the business world.

Places of business are open as usual, although the Boston Stock Exchange and the municipal and other schools are closed.

The veneration of the cross is the feature of the Good Friday devotions in the Roman Catholic churches today. Following the mass of the presanctified this morning the crucifix was offered to the faithful for their veneration. This afternoon and evening the devotion of the stations of the cross will be in every church of the Roman archdiocese, followed by a sermon on the Passion. In many of the churches there will be an hour of contemplation of the agony of the Passion at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

All the offices at City Hall will be closed from noon until 3 o'clock to enable city employes to attend church services.

Dean Rousmaniere is conducting the three-hour prayer period at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul on Tremont street. To accommodate the worshippers who may not have the leisure to remain during the entire service, it will be divided into nine 20-minute periods. The Good Friday services in St. Paul's began with morning prayer and the litany at 9:45 o'clock. At 10:45 o'clock the ante-communion service and sermon were given by Mr. Addich. At 5:30 o'clock there will be the evening service with an address by the Rev. A. W. Clark and at 8 o'clock the final service for the communicants conducted by Dean Rousmaniere.

It is not likely that you will ever again see such values as these

It is as true as gospel, that with prices marked closer than we have ever marked them in our fifty-one years in business, you cannot approach Osgood's values in New England. Our builders are exerting a tremendous pressure upon us for more room and we must meet their demands by unloading in a hurry.

That is why we say that you will never again see these goods priced so low.

We suggest that you look around, as we know that a comparison with other merchandise offered will result in a quick decision to buy at Osgood's.

ARTHUR LORD, HUB LAWYER, DIES AT 53

President of Pilgrim Society Was Authority on Early Colonial History

Arthur Lord, Boston and Plymouth lawyer, president of the Pilgrim Society since 1895, and nationally known as an authority on Pilgrim history, died suddenly at the Hotel Lenox in Boston yesterday afternoon of heart disease. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the First Unitarian church in Plymouth.

Arthur Lord.

Mr. Lord's law offices were at No. 45 Milk street, had practiced law here and in Plymouth since 1854. He was a member of the House of Representatives in 1885-86, former president of silver, Burdett & Co., former member of the Civil Service Commission of Massachusetts and chairman of the Public Safety Committee in 1917.

Born in Plymouth in 1856, he was graduated from Harvard in 1877. He received degrees from Dartmouth and Brown universities.

He was a member of the board of managers of the Jamestown Exposition, 1907, a former vice-president of the American Bar Association, former president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, a member of the Bar Association of Boston, the Massachusetts Historical Society, American Antiquarian Society, Colonial Society and the Old Colony Historical Society.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission. He was a Republican and an intimate friend of Henry Cabot Lodge. He was mentioned several times for a seat on the bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, but would never consider accepting it. He was an official of the Western Union Telegraph Company and president of the Plymouth Electric Light Company.

In Boston he was a member of the Union and Odd Volume Clubs and a member of the Harvard Club of New York and the Royal Societies of London.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters, Henry Lord, John Lord, connected with the American consulate at Singapore, Miss Catherine Lord of the Winsor School, Mrs. Sidney Robins of Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Lord.

HANOVER MAN KILLED IN ROW; LANDLORD HELD

Hanover, April 10—John Mionatas, fifty, of Summer street, died at Brockton Hospital from a fractured skull received in a row at the home of his landlord, Joseph Kapulinski, Summer street. The latter was arrested by State Police Corporal Lorain R. Preston on a charge of manslaughter. The case was continued until April 17 today in Hingham court. Mionatas received his injury last Saturday. Medical aid was not summoned until Wednesday.

16 of 17 School Girls Smoke, Quiz Shows

Concord, N. H., April 10.—Local high school girls answering a secret questionnaire put out by School Physician Day indicated that cigarette smoking is common among the girls. One pupil said that in a class of 17 girls only one reported herself a non-smoker. It was added, however, that most of the girls took the questionnaire as a joke and conditions may not be so bad as they seem.

E. P. MORSE ON DANGER LIST AT HOSPITAL

Skull Fractured When He Was Struck by Trolley Car

Erving P. Morse, treasurer of the Houghton & Dutton Company, is in a serious condition at the Commonwealth Avenue Hospital, suffering from injuries sustained when he was struck by a trolley car.

The accident occurred at Commonwealth avenue and Hyslade street and at the hospital it was feared that Mr. Morse had sustained a fracture of the skull and multiple contusions and abrasions. The latter was placed on the danger list.

He is forty-seven years old and his wife and two children live at No. 192 Bay State road with

Woman's Society Lets Court End Strife

Washington, April 10.—Two opposing factions of Washington's society women called an armed truce pending a decision by the District Supreme Court as to who is the rightful president of the Women's Welfare Association.

Following an acrimonious court battle, Justice Hoehling took upon himself the task of studying a mass of documents from which he will decide whether Mrs. Mac Pherson Peyton or Mrs. Wesley Martin shall direct the affairs of the organization.

The Welfare Association is the wealthy through which Washington society rules the needy.

BALFOUR'S LIFE IS SAVED BY SOLDIERS

Mob of 6,000 Attempts to Attack Hotel Where the Lord Is Stopping

Damascus, Syria, April 10 (Official)—American cavalry galloping through the streets of Damascus with drawn swords and eight armored cars arrived with the troops at Kuneitra, where Lord Balfour was staying, and rescued the British statesman who was threatened by a mob of 6,000 Arabs. Several persons were killed and many injured in the disturbance which started when the mob attempted to storm the hotel where the veteran British statesman was staying. DUDLEY PATROLMAN RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

Police Commissioner Wilson accepted the resignation of Patrolman Achille L. Piorine of the Dudley street station, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were preferred recently by his commanding officer, Captain Richard Fitzgerald.

Piorine, after he had been summoned before a trial board at headquarters, is alleged to have made statements reflecting on the conduct of his immediate superiors.

CATHOLIC FORESTERS TO INITIATE CLASS OF 6,000

A class initiation of 6,000 will be one of the features of the opening of the forty-sixth annual convention of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters in Boston the week of May 25.

The class initiation will be on Monday evening before the opening of the convention. The following evening there will be a ball at the Copley-Plaza and on Wednesday morning the annual convention proceedings will begin.

LEOMINSTER CITIZENS IN HUNT FOR FIREBUG

Leominster, April 10.—Citizens of Leominster have turned detectives and are assisting the police and State detectives in an effort to run down a mysterious firebug.

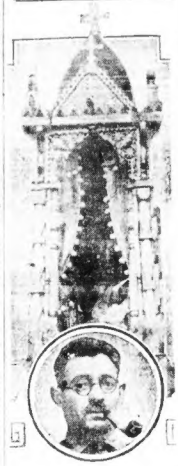
The city has had fires of every description, the greater number being of an unknown origin. During one day there were seven fires of a mysterious nature.

In some cases while the firemen have been fighting one fire another alarm would come in.

EX-GOVERNOR HARTNESS TO QUIT HUB HOSPITAL

The condition of ex-Governor James S. Hartness of Vermont, who for the past month has been a patient at the Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital, where he submitted to a serious operation, has improved considerably and he will probably be able to leave for his home within a few days. He is able to leave his room and take short walks daily.

Builds Altar



Frank C. Bowers of No. 56 Shawmut avenue, has just finished a remarkable altar. It stands about five feet high, was made from the odds and ends of lumber which he had collected. For the past two months Bowers has devoted his evenings to the work, which was done entirely by hand.

GERMANS FEAR HINDENBURG CANDIDACY

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Berlin, April 10 (Universal Cable)—The visible resurgence of international suspicions and the accentuation of internal conflicts in Germany are two results of the nomination of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg for the Presidency.

The echo which the nomination of Von Hindenburg aroused in foreign countries is well nigh universally unfavorable. Some circles in France and England have accepted the nomination as a direct provocation and practical disavowal of the conciliatory policy hitherto pursued by Germany.

Within Germany the left bloc is vociferously raising the cry of "monarchy and war, or the republic and peace," and without attacking Von Hindenburg personally, declares his nomination is a catastrophe and a rallying signal for all the active elements working for a monarchist counter revolution.

Von Hindenburg's candidacy has aroused the aspirations of all those who are still under the influence of the monarchistic splendor of the past. Backers of Von Hindenburg indet, however, that the question of Republic or Monarchy is not an issue, and that when Von Hindenburg takes the oath to guard the Republican constitution he can be expected to keep his oath.

RUNAWAY HORSE IS HALTED BY POLICEMAN

Pedestrians scampered for safety when a runaway horse, harnessed to a wagon loaded with fruit and produce, raced through Arch and Franklin streets at the height of the rush hour.

The animal was stopped by Patrolman John J. Kearns of Station 2 at Franklin and Federal streets.

Arthur Levenson of No. 9 Dewey street, Roxbury, the driver, was in a Summer street restaurant when the horse ran away.

SHIRT BARRAGE" WIFE IN BUSINESS

Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong, whose recent suit for parate maintenance against her husband was followed by spectacular hunger strike in his New York apartments, ll go into business. Mrs. Budlong plans to operate a hionable tea room in Newport, her friends assert. Mal- t McDonald, her secretary, denies knowledge of her tea n plans. During her "strike," Mrs. Budlong hurled tes, pinned to her husband's shirts, out of the window to porters on the street.

k, R.I., April 10.—Mrs. Jes- ret Budlong is to join the ks of other society women who ve disregarded the customs of "the " by opening tea rooms and mil- ry shops right in the midst of r society friends, according to d received here from New York. cording to the report, Mrs. Bud- g intends to open for the coming mer season at this fashionable rt, a tea room to serve the fami- of the wealthiest of the wealthy the most select of the social set. hen Mrs. Budlong returns from York to put her plans into oper- n, it will be her first visit here since her spectacular hunger strike in the New York apartment of her millionaire husband, following her defeat in a court action here for separate support for herself and their children. The custody of the Budlong children were awarded to their father until they reach their majority.

Among the other wealthy women who have opened shops to serve Rom- mer sojourners at Newport are Mrs. Marjorie de Looney Oelrichs, former- ly Miss Marjorie Turnbull, and Mrs. Henry D. Sharpe, wife of the Provi- dence millionaire, who as Elizabeth Evans conducted the candy shop known as "Elizabeth's."

SWEDISH CITIZEN HELD FOR ILLEGAL ENTRY

Nashua, N. H., April 10.—Sven Larsen of Sweden, who it is claimed, with two others deserted a Swedish steamship when it docked in Bos- ton, was arrested here, charged with an illegal entry into the United States. He was found asleep in a factory boiler room.

MAN IS KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO TRUCK

Rupert, Vt., April 10.—One man was killed and two were injured seri- ously when a passenger train on the Rutland & Washington division of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad struck a motor-driven truck car bear- ing the trio, near here. The dead man was Dominic Carona of Gran- ville, N. Y., a track laborer.

QUAY'S NIECE CUTS OFF HUSBAND IN HER WILL

New York, April 10.—Mrs. Susan Quay Butler, daughter of the late United States Senator Matthew S. Quay, Pennsylvania political power, cut off her husband with $1 and gave $375,000 to a six-year-old adopt- ed child. These facts were disclosed when the appraisal of her estate was filed.

MAN HURT WHEN AUTO TRUCK RUNS AMUCK

Manchester, N. H., April 10.—An auto truck which got beyond control of the driver dashed into a group of Easter shoppers on the sidewalk, broke a man's leg and shattered a plate-glass window in a music st p before it was stopped. Frank Lynch, No. 49 Maple street, was the in- jured man.

AUTOIST FALLS ASLEEP, CAR WRECKED IN CRASH

Biddeford, Me., April 10.—Falling asleep at the wheel, Emile Fontaine of this city, drove a new automobile in which he and his family were rid- ing, into a stone post. The party was returning from Portland.

New Owners Bought: the Taylor name, the Taylor lease, the Taylor reputation. Everything in This Store and Warehouse, $350,000 Stock, MUST BE SOLD. During this sale and until further notice we will keep our store open till 9 P. M. every evening!

Re-Organization Sale!

This has been, during this sensational sale, the busiest Furniture Store in Boston. Every day has been a record-breaking business day. The Public has been quick to sense the remarkable values offered during this sale and we have reduced our stock tremendously, but there's our HUGE WAREHOUSES to empty, and so the TAYLOR fleet of trucks are kept busy over time, hauling from WAREHOUSES to STORE FRESH LOTS of new merchandise and the same COMPETITION-RACKING prices are placed on these cargoes!

New Lots of Merchandise Replaced Daily for TAYLOR'S Bomb-Blasted Price-Feast!

Look For TAYLOR'S

There is only ONE TAYLOR'S, 770 WASHINGTON ST.

Be sure you come to the RIGHT PLACE! Look for the Sign Plastered Building!

The Choice of Bargains is just as great as on the opening day of this tremendous REORGANIZATION SALE—It would be an impossi- bility to unload our entire $350,000 in one week's selling—no matter how fast—and while our business has been enormous—we still have a HUGE WAREHOUSE STOCK to dispose of. Please note that this stock has never even seen the light of day—it is all new, fresh, desirable merchandise, but it is part of the everything-must-go stock—and so the price knife has done its duty by cutting prices so low that former prices have been shattered to fragments—it's just like the bursting of a BOMB—We cannot hold orders, lay aside or reserve merchandise. We must also refuse to fill mail or phone orders—All sales are final.

Broker Dead

New York, April 10.—Stuyvesant Fish Morris, Jr., a partner in the firm of Stuyvesant F. Morris & Company, brokers, No. 49 Wall street, died today at his home in Howlett, N. Y., after a lingering illness. He was forty-six years old.

Martin Van Buren, died today at his $80,000 LOSS IN FIRE IN KEENE, N. H.

County Jail Is in Peril as Fire Sweeps a Chair Factory

Keene, N. H., April 10.—The Burdette Chair factory, operated by the Pearson brothers in upper Washington street, was destroyed by fire today. Firemen were given a hard battle to save adjoining structures. Aid was summoned from Marlboro and with the borrowed help the flames were brought under control after they had spread to the George street Chapel on one side and a residence on the other.

The county jail, only a few doors away in Washington street, was in the path of the flames but there was no excitement at the lockup.

Two alarms were sounded for the fire that razed the four-story chair factory, but the cause of the blaze has not been determined. The loss is set tentatively at $80,000.

Firemen from Marlboro, six miles distant, made the run of six miles in eight minutes to assist the Keene brigade.

Dies After Fall

While carrying a store counter across Tremont street, Roxbury, Norman Provo, fifty years old, of 1294 Tremont street, slipped and fell, to the City Hospital, where he died within an hour.

NAVY SHIPS TO HUNT SARGASSO SEA EXPLORERS

New York, April 10.—Naval officials at Washington may be asked to send a government ship from Panama to find the exploration ship Arcturus if the silence of the vessel's radio is prolonged, representatives of the New York Zoological Society said today.

The Arcturus, carrying the ocean-ographic expedition of the society, headed by William Beebe, has not been heard from for twelve days. The Arcturus, when last heard from, on March 29, was 200 miles south from Panama in the Pacific Ocean.

The naval radio station at Panama is continuing its attempts to establish communication with the ship.

The vessel left Panama March 28 for a survey of the Humboldt current and a visit to the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific, 720 miles west of the coast of Ecuador.

The Arcturus, through its two powerful wireless outfits, had previously been keeping in daily communication with the society since its departure from New York on February 1. Upon reaching Panama, after a visit to the Sargasso Sea, the Arcturus took on two additional passengers, Mrs. George Palmer Putnam, wife of the New York publisher, and their 11 year-old son, David, for the two months' trip to Galapagos and return.

The vessel is under command of Captain J. B. Howes, with a crew of thirty-five. There are fourteen scientists aboard and two passengers.

Fritz Baedeker Dies

Leipsic, Germany, April 10.—Fritz Baedeker, head of the firm of Karl Baedeker, publishers of the well known travelers' guidebooks, died at the age of eighty-one. He was only fifteen years old when he took over his father's business in 1859, transferring it from Coblenz to Leipsic in 1872.

A Virile, Human Story of a Girl of Today

"That's right, kid! On your knees! Good work!"

The Story Thus Far

LIKE a tired gull to a ship's rigging came Barbara Brown out of the New Year's blizzard to the jewel house in Ryeneck, where J. B. Hardiman was wont to indulge his overlord fancy for youth and beauty. She stayed that night and woke to find herself mistress of the place—at a price. Rather than pay the price, Barbara, one chill night, stole the gardener's clothes, fled from the house of tribulations and found herself on the high road. She started South in a side-door Pullman.

THE earwig Lord Barbara beat bristled, rose and growled.

She raised a paw. With the [illegible] drum coursing her pores, [illegible] court, she got instead to [illegible] turned to the previous [illegible]

48 GOVERNORS TO "LISTEN IN" ON HAWAII SPEECH

Washington, April 10—Governor Mark H. Parrington of the territory of Hawaii addressed the Governors of forty-eight States and the Governor-General of Alaska over a nationwide radio hook-up when he spoke from Honolulu tonight. Arrangements were made by the Department of Commerce, which authorized the use of the radio broadcasting stations of the Navy Department and the Interior Department.

The program, which was arranged by the Governors' Conference of Hawaii, was broadcast by WJZ and WJY, Newark, N. J., and WRC, Washington, D. C., at 10 P. M., Honolulu time, which is 2 A. M. Eastern Standard time. It was broadcast also by WEAF, New York, and WCAP, Washington, D. C., at 10 P. M. Eastern Standard time, and by WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., at 10 P. M. Eastern Daylight Saving time.

SOME record for a watch—but scores of our watches keep accurate time year in and year out without adjustment

They have to.

When you buy a 17 jewel Illinois Rockland or Elgin from us for 50 cents down and 50 cents a week, that particular watch has got to make good for you or you would stop paying us. Right? That's why all our watches are good time keepers.

And if they slip up occasionally as the best of watches sometimes do, we mighty soon put them in good shape free of charge, or give you a new watch.

It's good business for you to buy watches from us. You pay the regular advertised price of each watch—and the watch you buy simply has to keep good time.

Think that over.

Serious operation avoided

Resinol healed stubborn sore

Elyria, Ohio, March 15.—"I feel it my duty and pleasure to thank you for the wonderful cure your Resinol ointment has wrought in my husband, who suffered from an open sore on the back of his neck for four years. Several doctors said that it was a cancer and advised its removal, but it was so near the base of the brain that we feared an operation. I had found Resinol Ointment so effective for cuts, burns and similar things that I persuaded my husband to try that. Resinol is sold by druggists everywhere. Resinol Soap is unsurpassed for the skin and hair.—Mrs. E. E. Kennedy, 242 E. 8th St.

SO many people are being disturbed at night by feline vocalization that the city is think of hiring a teacher to give singing lessons to all the cats in town.

THIS applies only to common felines. Cats with promising voices should be sent abroad.

AND somebody should go along with them to see that they don't come back.

A BETTER plan would be to start them for Europe and drop them overboard before they get there.

STILL, we might as well let them land on the other side of the ocean. What do we care if our cats keep Europe awake?

CATS would be better off in Scotland, where people wouldn't think of wasting shoes on them.

THEY could howl all night and a Scotchman wouldn't think of throwing anything out of the window.

THE average alley cat has nine lives and twice as many vocal chords.

AND no matter how many canaries they eat, they never howl sweetly.

THEY BE off key from five minutes after they're born until ten minutes after they're dead.

A CAT sleeps all day so that he can keep you awake all night.

IF they've got to howl, the music publishers ought to get together and teach them some popular songs.

THE city won't let you shoot at the cats. They're afraid you might miss and hit a burglar.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

IT is commonly thought that the Great War was largely responsible for the emancipation of women. True it is that during this period women street car conductors, women elevator operators, women locomotive engineers, machinists, taxi drivers made their appearance.

But it was long before then that the first wave of female indignation began to sprout and history is sprinkled conspicuously, although sparsely, with examples of women who dared to defy convention and enter occupations which were claimed as the sole province of men. Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans, was of us and that is the first of accounts. Yet the names of women have been associated with it almost from the very beginning. Cleopatra Heard is credited with being the first woman ever to go up in an airship.

When her proposed flight was announced publicly by the famous balloonist Garnerin, a great protest went up. The Bureau of Police in Paris passed an injunction against it. The reason given for passing such a drastic measure was that they were actuated by human sentiments, that the very thought of allowing a tender young girl to expose herself to such a hazardous undertaking was unbearable.

The newspapers, however, condemned the action of the authorities, and in reply to them the commissioner, one Piequenard by name, said that he had questioned Garnerin to find out whether this trip was being made in the interests of furthering the knowledge of aircraft and had received an answer in the negative. He had also asked the balloonist whether he had calculated the position in the night when the air pressure might make on so delicate a young creature as that she might suffer pain. He was a result of both. Garnerin replied that he was willing to take the entire responsibility of the undertaking. But this did not satisfy the worthy functionary. He declared that, after such responses, the Central Bureau could not do otherwise than issue this philanthropic injunction.

However Garnerin and the intrepid Citoyenne were not to be so easily put off. They secured their case to the heads of the administration. The Minister of the Interior and the Minister of the Police were called in. And the conference resulted in a victory for the balloonist.

SHY BOBBY THOUGHT A SEAL THREW STONES

By Foxy Grandpa.

WE had landed at Nome, Alaska and were traveling about up north along the coast. It was cold up there, too. I can tell you but we had on our Arctic suits and looked like regular Esquimaux. Of course Bunny was in his element and went tearing through the snow kicking up a white cloud with those two hind feet of his.

Luck as usual was in those two little feet, too, for we had not gone far when what should we see sitting on the rocks, yawning, but a family of seals.

"Just think," I whispered. "Those people up here couldn't get along without seals and walruses. You know a walrus is of the seal family."

"Why, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby.

"Take the walrus, for instance. Every part of his body is used by the Esquimaux.

"To begin with, they make the kyack, the light boats which you see Esquimaux use, out of the hide of the walrus. Of the sinews and muscles they make nets and fishing lines.

"Fishing lines," said Bobby, with a dreamy expression in his little eyes.

"Yes." I went on. "Not only do Esquimaux get the fishing lines from the walrus but also fish hooks, needles, beads and even harpoon heads."

"What part of the body do they come from?" asked Bobby.

"Out of the tusks," I answered.

"Moreover, Bobby, it would be pretty dark in here if it weren't for the oil which is taken from the seals and the walrus. You can imagine how dark our lives are without oil of some kind.

"And then even make clothing out of the fur and shoes out of the flippers. Oh, yes, and I almost forgot they even furnish raincoats. Yes, the Esquimaux make waterproof coats out of the membrane which lines the body of the walrus."

"Let's move on nearer to those seals," said Bunny.

"Let's," I said.

So we came from behind the rocks and slowly advanced toward the seals.

The old fellow heard our steps on the pebbly earth where the snow had blown away on the rocky spots. He gave a grunt, and off they started to flop, barking like a pack of hounds.

We hurried on to get closer, for I had my camera out by this time, when Bobby cried:

"They're throwing stones at us, Foxy Grandpa."

"Certainly seems the way." I chuckled, as many pebbles flew in our direction.

Just before the family group took a dive into the icy water I snapped them with my camera and got a good picture turning the film around Bobby said:

"What do you think of those seals throwing stones, Foxy Grandpa?"

"They didn't throw the stones, Bobby, although many seems to think that they do. They use these pebbles back with their flippers when they shuffle along. Those look at Bunny see how he kicks up those rocks? That's how the seals throw the stones.

"No wonder walrus hunt them. I'm not a walrus hunter myself, though," I thought, then," said Bobby, shaking his head decisively.

Is it not misleading to say "retail trade is good"?

Is not a wrong meaning conveyed by the phrase "retail trade"? In various lines it is a matter of fact "retail trade" is booming.

Incorrect impressions are spread because many of those who do the spreading of impressions either fail to make clear that we are now living under changed conditions. The phrase "retail trade" used to be employed to cover retail dry goods trade—nothing, or at least little else. But retail trade has become much more diversified during recent years. It is no longer right to say that retail business is quiet simply because the demand for dry goods at retail may be low.

* * *

Is retail trade quiet?

Retailers in the radio business say "No."

Retailers of electric appliances say "No."

Retailers of silks say "No."

Retailers of automobiles—or at least many of them—say "No."

Retailers in the mail-order business say "No."

Retailers operating through chain stores say "No."

Retailers of gasoline say "No."

Retailers of moderately priced homes say "No."

Retailers of gas and electricity say "No."

Retailers of sugars for home and foreign trade say "No."

Retailers in the banking business, looking at the record breaking volumes of bank clearings, say "No."

Retailers of life insurance say "No."

Wall Street for months have been able to say "No."

Retailers of life insurance say "No."

Retailers of transportation, railroads, say "No."

Retailers of foodstuffs say "No."

Retailers of furniture say "No."

Retailers of machine tools say "No."

* * *

Seeing that sales of copper this year have been breaking all records, that steel production has been extraordinarily heavy, that financing for new corporations taken out in New York State last month were the largest ever recorded, that Chicago jobbers are doing an unusually big business and that labor in general is well employed, it is logical to deduce that various other lines of retail business must be doing quite well.

Much that is now said to understand will become clearer in your mind if you will first of all look into your local list the majority of American families today spend their income along considerably different lines from those formerly.

A smaller part of our dollar now goes into clothing and into shoes. Quite a part of Mr. Average House holder's dollar now goes to an automobile into gasoline, into tires, into oil, into radio, into motion picture entertainments, into recreation and travel into garages, into taxes, into insurance, into savings, into investments, into electrical and other labor-saving devices, into income and other taxes, into motor bus transportation, into electric lighting, into education, into newspapers and periodicals, into delicatessen goods, into a hundred and one other things which years ago figured very lightly or not at all in the ordinary American family's budget.

Hereafter when you read in Dun's or Bradstreet's weekly report or in any other publication that retail trade is dull, ask yourself just what lines of retail trade are meant, and do your own thinking about how active spending for a variety of lines rarely mentioned.

* * *

In our opinion consumption of products, taken by and large is at most if not quite as great today as it ever has been in many years.

GUM-CHEWING SEASONAL IN ENGLAND

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Some facts gathered about chewing gum and confectionery will be of special interest to New England, the greatest confectionery centre in the world.

Gum chewing is seasonal in England. Beginning with January, sales of this commodity reach peak during July and August months and then fall perceptibly, with the approach of the Christmas season according to a survey by the Department of Commerce of markets for confectionery in England, Canada, the Near East and Africa.

American gum has been so generally accepted by the Britons that sales are very little affected in connection with the candid mints, comprising approximately one half the trade. France, Denmark and Scotland are also large consumers of gum, with Germany fast acquiring a taste which should result in larger sales by the United States.

Declared to conform in general by the report says that with the possible exception of continental Europe, where easy access to raw materials has developed the market to a point where American exporters find it hard to meet the competition of foreign manufacturers most of the countries surveyed offer fields for the further development of the export trade of the United States.

The Mediterranean, of the trade zone for confectionery, is said to be quite well in competition with the foreign products now on the market. The French and Belgians do not limit their confections but prefer to select the size, type and contents, their inclination tending toward the ornamental box. The fairyan trade prefers plain confections and bonbons predominate. The finest types of confections are imported to Moscow, a better grade for the wealthy and for foreigners and a cheaper grade for the natives. Chocolate and caramels are most popular in Sweden while in Portuguese East Africa hard candies are favored.

In some of the markets which do not seem to offer large possibilities to American exporters especially at the ports of transit, which conditions are not displayed for sale. This department stresses the value of advertising in order to popularize the United States confectionery lines, and gives the preferred methods of procedure for entering these markets.

SLASH IN 'GAS' IS PUZZLING

Wall Street has been having a hard time trying to determine the real reason for the recent cut in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Many observers were inclined to attribute it to the large stocks of so-called distressed gasoline which have been thrown on the market by small refiners who were loaded up with surplus stocks in anticipation of higher prices as a result of heavily increased consumption at this time of the year.

Others were inclined to look upon it as the beginning of a battle for supremacy in the domestic field between the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana which recently has attempted to position through the acquisition of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Co.

Still others looked upon it as the start of "freezing out" the small refiners.

16 CHAPLAINS REPORT FOR TRAINING APRIL 21

Washington, April 9.—Plans are briefly outlined by President Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks and others, relating to active duty, temporarily six weeks, of officers of the Army Reserve, covering ten different denominations, who are chaplains in the Reserve Corps.

Reserve chaplains will report on the 21st of April, when called for State liability service in a period of training.

Both the Boston and New York Stock Exchanges are closed today (Good Friday), according to the usual custom. Some of the smaller exchanges will omit Saturday's short session, but the Boston Stock Exchange and the New York Stock Exchange will be open as usual Saturday.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS LEAD IN DEATHS

Baltimore, April 10.—The death rate from accidental causes among industrial workers is about two and one-half times that for the non-industrial group in the composite registration area of the United States, according to a study of the causes of industrial accidents declared to be a menace to the society today.

Pneumonia is twice as high among industrial workers as among non-industrial workers, the report added, continuing:

"In a similar manner conditions such as a general tuberculosis taber-ances, Bright's disease and cancer most diseases show striking significance of industrial exposure. The death rates are two and three times as high as in the non-industrial group during the active working years of life.

"As regards the hazards inherent to exposure to certain industrial poisons, it is believed the number of immediate deaths is probably not large, but the indirect effects can be noted in the curtailed efficiency of workers in those trades, in long periods of illness and disability.

"One of trivial injuries is receiving greater attention from the industries, the report said. Over 2,000 cases of infection were noted in a group of 100,000 during a single year, and of this number only twenty had received treatment prior to the appearance of the infection. Other facts were ascertained by a group of physicians in industrial concerns, employing between 800,000 and 700,000 persons.

ATHOL CITIZENS NOW OWN SHOE FACTORY

Athol, April 10.—The first community owned shoe factory in the history of New England will be ready to do business within a short time.

More than 1,000 citizens of Athol are interested in the new project, each having contributed to the fund with which the plant of the Lee Shoe Co. was purchased for a consideration of $85,000.

The mercantile committee of the Board of Trade acted as agents in the deal.

It is planned to rent the factory. The plant was purchased from Greenman and Rosenberg of Boston and $76,250 in cash was paid, the former owners taking stock in the new corporation for the remainder of the purchase price.

BANKS DENY HOSTILITY TO HIGHER WAGE SCALES

Washington, April 10.—Washington banks have filed formal denials of the charge that their real estate loans are influenced by the borrowers' attitude toward increased wage scales. Replying to an inquiry from the Central Labor Union, twenty-three Washington banks declared that last year applications were judged solely on their merits.

The inquiry was a recent development in the capital's labor controversy which has resulted in the organized painters and paperhangers going out on strike and of threats of similar action from plumbers and steamfitters.

STATE INSURANCE FOR AUTOS KILLED

Bicycles

On Time to School
Don't let that youngster of yours get into a crowded, stuffy trolley and worry about being late. Let a good bicycle be his locomotive—save car fare, too. It's more fun with the pals who are living near, and it will make him strong and growing up as they should.
The cost is little—the benefits big. Bring him in and select a model today.
Through our Co-operative Plan, as low as $1.00 down and $1.00 per week.

Will Massachusetts Send a Woman to Congress?

Gifted Widow of Representative Rogers Candidate in Doubtful Fifth District

Massachusetts may be the first New England State to be represented in Congress by a woman.

In the Fifth Congregational District, long and ably represented by John Jacob Rogers, his death has created a vacancy for which his widow, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, has announced her candidacy.

Her husband was stronger than his party because he was bigger than his party. His wife was not only his life partner but his helpmeet in his manifold public service. As a candidate to fill his unexpired term, the Republican leaders probably think she would be stronger than her party.

By the death of Congressman Rogers his district has been thrown into the doubtful column.

Necessity knows no law and political necessity knows no sex. In their emergency the Republican big-wigs of Massachusetts are turning to the leadership of Mrs. Rogers because she is a gifted woman, well acquainted with national affairs. They hope to prevent the election of a Democrat.

New England Republicans and New England Democrats will watch the contest in the Merrimac Valley with keen interest. Especially will they wish to know the views of the opposing candidates on such questions as the League Court, the enforced labor of little children of tender years, the recognition of Russia, the application of the "gag" to Count Karolyi, taxation, transportation, the high cost of rents and ways and means of getting next Winter's coat.

There is no lack of issues on which the opposing parties can line up today. Whether they can find leaders brave enough and intelligent enough and well enough informed to discuss the issues in which the people have an interest and a right to hear discussed remains to be seen.

Certainly as the Republican nominee for Congress in the Fifth Massachusetts District Mrs. Rogers would win a wonderful opportunity to take popular issues of timely interest directly to the people and tell them where she stands on each and ever one of them.

Whom will the Democrats nominate to uphold their principles and policies?

Too Bad They Differ

Why not Permit Freedom of Opinion

Fundamentalists who say every word in the Bible is true, not a letter must be changed, are still quarreling bitterly with the modernists, who would like to explain Jonah and the whale. It is rather hard for a clergyman to know just what to do.

One reverend gentleman in New York, in charge of a very old church, preached for years to empty benches. So he got young ladies with bare feet dancing and waving their arms modestly to interpret spiritual truths. And now he has to turn away crowds. His preaching is looked upon as irregular. But the crowds may come to watch the young ladies' twinkling toes and remain to repent their sins.

It seems a pity that clergymen should be impelled by their conscience to quarrel. It is as though children, discussing Santa Claus, should quarrel, one saying "Santa has a long white beard and reindeer," and another "Santa has a clean-shaven face and an airplane." Why not say, "We all love Santa Claus" and not quarrel about definitions?

One reverend gentleman preaches about Colonel Ingersoll, long in his grave, and attacks him. A cowboy when offered ox-tail soup said it was "going a long way back for soup." To attack Ingersoll is like going a long way to find an infidel. You might as well go back to Volney and his "Ruins of Empire"—an extremely well written book, by the way.

Why cannot all think as they please on religion? The Lord permits it, and our Constitution permits it. Isn't that enough?

Have You Gold?

Don't Worry

If you own any gold, you needn't be worried about the efforts to produce gold artificially. Some scientists think they can DO it, and have done it, on a small scale.

The gold thus produced might cost a thousand times more than natural gold, and at best the actual production is doubtful.

However, today's knowledge of chemistry is based to a considerable extent on the efforts of ancient alchemists to make gold artificially. And the efforts of the chemists and physicists to produce artificial gold NOW may teach us many things about atomic construction and transformation, knowledge more valuable than the creation of a little extra gold which isn't needed. A mountain of pure gold as big as the Rockies would be useless; a mountain of pure iron that big would be a priceless treasure.

Experiments in Chicago have produced mercury WEIGHING as much as gold, which indicates a change in the molecular and atomic construction of the mercury. But it doesn't LOOK like gold.

The process of manufacture seems a little complicated. "Electrons with thousands of times higher velocity are shot into mercury in order to see if they attach themselves to the mercury nucleus and thus produce gold."

It is as though a gigantic power outside of this universe utilizing our solar system as a little "atom" should shoot other planets against our system in the effort to have them attach themselves to our sun and sail around with the other planets.

The ancient "gold basis" is in no danger as yet. If you have enough of the old-fashioned gold, rest quietly—you're safe.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

MARRIAGE is the point at which a girl stops asking a man what are his views of her, and begins telling him what she thinks of HIM.

* * *

Women, says the Bachelor, are like taxicabs: you may dodge them successfully for a while, but sooner or later, some of them will "get you." It's only a matter of time!

* * *

Most men marry because they know that no laundry is going to take the interest in preserving their socks, no restaurant in preserving their digestion, and no vamp in preserving their bank-account, like a wife does.

* * *

Whether a man uses either the pocketbook argument of fists or the modern argument of the check-book, to make a woman "see things his way," he always calls it "persuading her to listen to reason."

Helen Rowland

You can always tell a good husband by his worried expression, the worn edges of his overcoat pockets, and his habit of watching the clock.

* * *

Before marriage, when a woman says, "What do you mean?" it frightens a man into telling a lie; after marriage, it bores him into telling one.

* * *

There are times when it occurs to a wife, that Mr. Hyde and Dr. Jekyll were merely the same man before and after DINNER.

* * *

It is all right for a man to agree before rushing into a serious thing like marriage, but the "dare" needn't lengthen itself out into a three-year engagement with a deadstop at the end.

* * *

As far as most men are concerned, a blonde is just a dangerous woman's peel on the straight and narrow path.

* * *

Nowadays if a man is found one good engagement ring ought to outlast seven or eight girls.

Nature gives all men happiness if they only knew how to use it.—Claudius.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

OH, where goes every Kindly thought that never into deed is wrought? And where the aimless tenderness that makes no sign, gives no caress? Where souls each with that wings away toward distant dear ones every day? Where boundless mother-love, that knows no ebb, no waning, no repose? What of this hunger of the heart to give more love while years depart? Somewhere, I dream, such longings bloom and sweeten life with their perfume. Somewhere they quicken into light to send their rays across the night to some sad soul that would despair but for the promises they bear. They come like gusts of April rain that wake the violets again, to bring to shadowed ways and drear the glory of their faith and cheer.

Must Have Clothes for Work

Helping Hand Editor:

I have been out of work practically all Winter and am in rags. My shoes are all broken and I couldn't go to work if I had a job. Won't some kind person give me some clothing, size 38, and shoes size 7? Wife also needs clothing, size 38, shoes 5, and for girls 6, 4 and 15y. And if someone could give me a job after I get something to wear. I am a teamster, but anything will do. Kind readers, please help me.

THOMAS.

Deeply In Debt

Helping Hand Editor:

Two of my children have had the scarlet fever and now the other two have it, and I wonder if some kind readers have some playthings for them. There is a boy, two girls five and three, and baby one month old. The girls five is greatly in need of clothing and also myself. I take size 36 or 38, husband is not working full time and we are deeply in debt.

MRS. G. F.

Others In Need

Mrs. C. G., mother of nine children and again expecting the stork, would appreciate a baby carriage.

* * *

Mrs. E. D. L. sick four years and cannot walk, would be so thankful for a wheel chair so she can get out of doors. Child's size would do as she is very small.

* * *

Mrs. M. A. D. asks for clothing for girl 3, boy 5 and baby 1 year old. Expects the stork in the Summer. She wears size 40. Husband out of work. She can make over anything.

* * *

Mrs. D. G. asks for clothing for her husband, small size, and for five children, boys 10, 9 and 7 and girls 8 and 6. Husband ill many weeks this Winter. Can make over anything.

* * *

Mrs. A. G. L. writes about a family—father dead, mother trying to support them. There are seven children. Four are badly in need of clothing and shoes. Boys 12, 8, and 4 who wear shoes 4½, 4 and 3, and girl 10, shoe size 12.

* * *

Mrs. M. F. P. will give a good home and an abundance of love and kindness to a little girl around 10. Has no children.

* * *

Mrs. E. C. G. who has a stroller in good condition will exchange with someone for a baby carriage. Has a baby three weeks old. Would also like some clothes and shoes for girl age 3 and shoes size 7.

* * *

Mrs. V. K. needs clothing for herself, size 40, and for boy 4 and girls 3, 5 and baby 1. Can make over anything. Sickness has put them in debt.

* * *

Mrs. L. C. would appreciate clothing for boy 4 and baby 1, suit for her husband, size 38, and dresses for herself, size 36.

* * *

A widow, living alone, in need of help at the present time, would like a nice room to one or two reliable working girls, with privilege of washing and cooking. Price reasonable and a nice homelike place.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Make the Air Safe.

Editor Boston Evening American:

Your editorial on the drunken driver situation was right to the point. It was gratifying to see one newspaper take some space to point out the dangers of the situation and to call upon the Legislature and Governor to do something about it.

I am surprised, however, at your lack of knowledge when you impudently inquire what the Legislature on Beacon Hill were doing in March when forty-seven of our people were going to their deaths in motor accidents. Why, they were making the air safe. While forty-seven persons were being bumped off by autos the Legislature passed, in their wisdom, and the Governor signed a bill providing prison sentences for driving an airplane while under the influence of liquor. When important and necessary legislation like this is at hand, do you expect them to waste their time over drunken drivers of automobiles?

You wonder if they were debating whether to stop the drinking driver on the left wing or the right. No! They were making the air safe. We can now send our children to play in the air and our wives to stroll among the clouds, and know they are safe because now if the drunken driver of an airplane knocks them from the air or from a cloud, he gets a jail sentence.

While forty-seven were killed on the ground and the rolling juggernauts of death with the drunken drivers at the wheel still infest our streets, the air has been made safe.

A NEW WAY TO CURE PEOPLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

DR. KING BROWN of Bermondsey Town, in England, has thought of a new propaganda.

If a man is feeling down, has got the grumps and is generally pessimistic, his frown will be vanished and he will be cheered up with a few lines like "Old goosey gander."

He proposed that the following lines be scattered all over the town by electric signs:

Gums full of poison, teeth few and loose,
At forty lumbago, at fifty the screws.

His deputy comes forward as befits his station and suggests that the picture of a man with a toothbrush and these words of advice shall make up the next line:

I am eighty today, yet from age I am free,
The toothbrush way is the way for me.

The council recently, by unanimous vote in order to make the town healthy, decided to boost this plan and to note if it also made the taxpayers wealthy.

Certainly if there is some value in suggestion, good health might be advertised and thoughts of good health be firmly lodged in the minds of the public.

Whether or not it will result in putting health hints on billboards and flashing them on electric signs, instead of using these means for advertising safety razors and sewing machines and other commercial devices, cannot be said.

It is surely an interesting experiment and the result from Bermondsey will be watched closely.

PROOF OF REACHING NORTH POLE

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

"I have always been interested in Arctic exploration and the search for the North Pole, but while having a very fair knowledge of the method of finding the pole, have never been able to understand how an explorer can, if he finds the same, bring back to the layman certain proof that he has done so.

—G. H., Lynn, Mass.

THE proof would be simple, but the production of satisfactory evidence in support of the proof, i. e., showing that the proof had not been either purposely or accidently "faked," might be difficult, because, at bottom, such evidence would have to rest solely upon human testimony.

That is why some of Robert E. Peary's most ardent admirers have never ceased to regret that he made the irreparable error of not taking with him to the North Pole at least one scientifically trained companion capable of checking, or repeating, his observations, and certifying independently not only their correctness but the fact that they were actually made as reported.

Such a requirement could fairly be regarded as "hard lines" by a man of Peary's great reputation and achievements, and somewhat irritable temper. One could understand his resenting it, and yet, because that precaution was not taken there are intelligent people, influenced by the rivalry between Dr. Cook and Peary, who still entertain some doubt on the subject.

I myself do not doubt that Peary actually made the observations as recorded by him, and that therefore he must have been very close to, if not exactly upon, the northern end of the earth's axis, on April 6, 1909.

There could be no question concerning the interpretation of the observations, if they were accurately made a mistake as to their meaning was impossible. Certain appearance presented at the poles could not be repeated anywhere else on the earth. The most striking of these is the revolution of the heavenly bodies in planes parallel to the horizon.

The observer standing on the pole in the long Arctic day, lasting six months at the pole, even without the prolongation produced by twilight and refraction, sees the sun travel all the way round the sky, from left to right, once every 24 hours, without rising or setting, or to ordinary observation, perceptibly varying its altitude above the horizon.

Peary reported that he stayed 24 hours in a camp at the pole, making observations throughout that period for the purpose of fixing position. The observations as recorded by him satisfy the theoretical conditions existing at the pole, and could only be challenged on the assumption that they were not made at the time and place alleged.

At the date when Peary's report shows that he was at the pole, the sun would be over six degrees north of the Equator, and that would be its altitude above the horizon of the pole (which is parallel with the Equator) except that atmospheric refraction would increase the altitude half a degree or more.

At that time of year the change of the sun's declination is rapid, so that in 12 hours (the time it would take to go half round the sky) its altitude would increase about 11 minutes of arc, or one-tiled of its diameter.

This change, being known in advance would be allowed for in interpreting the results of the observations. If the explorer had been at the pole at the Summer solstice, about June 21, the change of the sun's declination in 12 hours would have been very slight and perceptible only to careful measurements.

The visits of both Amundsen and Scott to the South Pole were quite near the Southern Summer solstice. Amundsen's on December 14; Scott's on January 18.

You will notice that Amundsen in his proposed aerial flight to the North Pole plans to make a landing there. Ice and refuge there, for hours, for the sake of taking observations of the same nature as those made by Peary, and by the aid of which he will be able, first, to prove to his own satisfaction, and afterwards to establish to the satisfaction of the world, that he has really reached the pole.

If it were possible to visit the pole in the long Arctic night (and it may become possible in time), the observations required for establishing positions would be made on the stars, and particularly the Pole Star, which would be seen about one degree and six minutes from the zenith.

In all such cases the evidence adduced in support of an explorer's story and records must necessarily be affected by circumstances, probabilities, character and reputation. He cannot be too careful to have all these elements favorable, as far as they are under his control.

ONCE-OVERS

WHAT ARE THE OLD FRIENDS WORTH TO ONE WHO HAS OUTRUN THEM?

Again you are thinking of the old, true friends whom you have avoided, perhaps snubbed. You are wishing for the loyal friendship which you know they had for you.

You have made many new friends, but somehow you feel lonely. Among all the new friends there seem to be none to whom you could open your heart.

You cannot make yourself believe that one of them is sincerely interested in you. You have simply sailed at easy tide together, that is all.

And now you are weary, tired, and longing for the ones whom you put out of your life. That was when you wanted to advance socially, as you prospered.

But you have learned that to make success complete there must be someone to whom you can talk without restraint.

You are sad because you have no real friends.

Such is the price you pay for social advancements among snobs. Is it worth it?
